

PRESS RELEASE

Tilburg, September 2019

A modern solution that turns your grey view green

A beautiful, lush garden or green balcony is the stuff of dreams for many people. An outdoor space where you can sit back and relax, away from the buzz of busy modern life. Getting a place like that doesn't have to be complicated: everyone can create a green view! The elho greenville collection consists of easy plant pots that take the pressure off plant care, with hanging varieties that turn even the smallest balconies into a green nirvana.

Nature's green, modern black or vintage brique: the elho greenville pots are available in subtle colours that support the natural beauty of your plants. With a handy, built-in water reservoir, you don't have to worry about giving your plants too much or too little water: the pot stores any excess water supply.

New in the greenville collection are two hanging pots, developed to shine on your balcony. The round, 20cm diameter pot can hold one plant, and the 45cm double pots hold several. You can easily attach the pots to your balcony railing, where they will stay even during a heavy storm, thanks to the extra fixators. Like the other pots in the collection, the plant hangers come with a built-in water reservoir, so your plants will never get wet feet.

Just like many other collections found at elho, the greenville plant hanger single and long are made with recycled plastic and will last for years to come. Done their duty? The pots are fully recyclable. An easy, green choice that puts a smile on your face and helps your plants grow wild.

Available from 1. January 2020
